CENT AND A HALF FARE

On All Ohio Railroads is What Attorney General Promises

A cent and a half railroad fare in Ohio. This is the proposition to which Attorney General Hogan has bent his energies, and according to his statement it is a near possibility.

"The effort of the Pennsylvania and other railroads to break down our two-cent fare law by refusing to run excursions is going to have the opposite result from what they expected," said Hogan. "It is my deliberate judgment that the day of the cent and a half fare in Ohio is not far off."

Man With Sore Feet Spends $700.00 on Them—A True Story

Vouched for by Levegood & Stricker, druggists of Latrobe, Pa.

Here is one of the greatest testimonials I have ever heard.

George Umaltis from Atlantic No. 2, a coal plant near here bought two packages of EZO, and in about three or four weeks he came in and told me that he wanted to have it advertised, and said I am willing to pay all charges, because I want the people to know how good it is. He told me that for seven years he hadn't stood on his feet, he spent $700 for doctor bills, and he only used one package of EZO, and can run and jump like a boy. He was all smiles about EZO. J. Jas. Wood & Son sell EZO, a refined ointment for sore, aching, weary feet for 25c a jar.

PLAN MANY CHURCHES

WASHINGTON IS SOON TO HAVE SOME NOTABLE EDIFICES.

Only Buildings in Capital Worthy of Mention Are Those Erected During the Decade Before and the Decade After the Revolution.

Although it is more than ordinarily endowed with splendid buildings indicative of the temporal power of an ascendant capital, Washington has not among its public edifices very many notable examples of church architecture. There are of course numerous chapels and churches in Washington. In fact, a man may stand in any quarter of the city and see from a street corner two or three worshiping places, but few of them are structures of imposing appearance.

Many capitals of the world are justly famed for their churches and for little else, so unless there is an uplift in this direction Washington will have to depend on its other glories for distinction. This deficiency, however, is keenly felt, and even now there is a movement afoot among all sects to beautify Washington churches.

The only churches in Washington at present worthy of mention are those built during the decade before and the decade after the Revolution. Probably the most exquisite survival of these earlier periods of church building is old St. John's Episcopal Church, which stands just across Lafayette square from the White House. This is, indeed, a remarkable quarter from an architectural point of view. The historic square is lined with notable structures, among them the Commodore Decatur house, the John Hay house and the Arlington Hotel. Old St. John's is itself in classic in type and follows closely the dictates of Inigo Jones. Its graceful portico, of the Roman Doric order, faces Sixteenth street, while its length extends along the square. Its belfry is the most typical feature about the edifice, its classic lines, pyramided to a spire, calling to mind the best of London steeples.

There are other churches in Washington belonging to the same period, but smaller and less noteworthy. One of 50 years later, however, is worthy mentioning, in that it is a remarkable example of church architecture, although built during a period of depression. It is the Cathedral of St. Dominic, a Catholic church in Southwest Washington, a little frequented section of the city. This church is the most perfect Gothic building in the city, and while not as ornate as Continental Gothic cathedrals, it is of a high plane of excellence. It is not among the churches shown to sight-seers who come to Washington, however, and is seldom seen save by those who frequent it.

Another of the churches built in the "black walnut" period is Grace Church in Georgetown, which is contiguous to Washington and now a part of it. Grace Church is of red brick and Gothic. Its chief merit lies in a remarkable belfry, although the entire structure is unusually graceful.

Two notable churches, however, are now being erected by the advocates of better church architecture in Washington. The one which is to stand at the head of Washington's list of ecclesiastical edifices is the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, at Mount St. Alban, which overlooks the entire city. This cathedral, which is just rising above its foundations, will be of the most elaborate Gothic design. It will resemble York Minster, an Old World church of fame, pointing two towers high above a maze of flying buttresses and carved images of saints.

The chapel of the Holy Nativity, a part of the cathedral, has already been dedicated, but the main cathedral will be nearly as long in building as the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York.

Another notable Washington church now under construction is the First Church of Christ, Scientist, nearing completion, on Columbia Heights, a fashionable residence section of the city. This church is classic in design and is built on the lines of the Pantheon. It will be the most imposing church of its type in Washington. Equally as fine will be the Temple of the Scottish Rite, but that structure will not be completed for months and probably years to come.

This general movement toward better church architecture will, in the next decade, put Washington on a plane with other cities of its size as far as excellence of such edifices is concerned.

Work of Many Architects.

A number of architects were employed at one time or another on the capitol. The first four were William Thornton, Stephen Hallet, George Hadfield and James Hoban. Nothing remains of the plans of the first two of these men. Hadfield was the most skillful, and continued to work after Benjamin Latrobe was put in charge. After the capitol was burned Latrobe made several improvements. He was succeeded by Charles Bulfinch of Boston, the first American born architect to work on the building. He practically completed it in 1826. Finally, twenty years later, Thomas U. Walter of Philadelphia added the dome and extensions, the most beautiful and creating portions of the structure.

STORIES OF CAMP AND WAR

STRANGE CIVIL WAR INCIDENT

Negro With Piece of Spent Ball in Head Is Restored to Consciousness by Surgical Operation.

After the battle of Bull Run, when the whole country was holding up its hands in dismay and breathing hard in the realization that the war was not, after all, to be a picnic for the northern troops, I, together with many other doctors and surgeons, rushed into Washington from distant cities, writes G. Giffing Wilcox in the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

I was taken, one dark, rainy night, by an affable old negro woman to her cabin, in the outskirts of the city.

She came to me in tears: "Doc-tah, I des wisht yoh come an' see my Samson. He 'pears mon'ous cur'ous, an' he acts des like he 'stracted'."

At her cabin I found her son, a tremendous fellow, as black as a coal and evidently an athlete, with no evidence of a wound upon his body, but with a tendency to bear off to one side as he walked, an apparent inability to talk, and possessed of a persistent effort to march and keep time to martial music, which he could not do.

Aunt Hannah told me that her son had always been strong and healthy, and that when he left Washington with the army he was perfectly sound and "des like de res" of de folks; but dey fetch him back to his po' ole mammy des like yoh se him, doc-tah, an' I des skeered plumb out my senses, dat I is."

I examined Samson carefully and could find not the slightest thing the matter with him, and half believed that he was shamming.

The room was whitewashed and I noticed a streak entirely around it that was so evenly drawn that it attracted my attention, but in the stirring events of those days I really paid scant heed to so trifling a case as Samson's, and so apparently trivial an indication as was that level streak on the wall.

I spent several years in Paris and in Germany after the war, and it was not until 1885 that I was back in Washington.

We had an international convention there at the time, and were taken to various public institutions, among which was a little asylum for poor and insane negroes.

In one room, as we were passing the door, I happened to observe on the whitewashed wall a well-worn streak drawn so level and circling the room so perfectly that it called to my mind a vision which I had wholly forgotten.

Before noon the next day we had Samson's small room looking like a hospital operating room, and the great black frame lay on the table under the influence of ether.

I cut open the right side of the thick skull, and sure enough, a splintered piece of bone from an old depressed fracture pressed into the brain.

I lifted it, dressed it with aseptic, and replaced skull and scalp and placed him in bed.

Then we set about reviving him. Presently Samson opened his eyes and stared about him.

Then he asked—and it was the first articulate word he had uttered for over twenty long years—"Whar did de army move to yisterday?"

I was too excited to reply, and no one else seemed to grasp the full meaning of the question.

Presently I said: "Forward—Richmond, Samson, but you were hurt a little and had to stay behind, and we have been doctoring you. You are all right now. How do you feel?"

"First rate, thankee, sir; first rate. Which side licked yisterday? Ourn?"

The war and his experience up to that time when he was struck on the head, most likely by a piece of spent shell, are as if they were yesterday in his memory, and his mind is as clear and as good as the average of his race and condition, but where that mind was, and how it was occupied during those years, is a never-failing query to me, all the more, perhaps, because it does not trouble or puzzle Samson in the least.

JUDGE COOPER FOR TAFT

Kentuckian Refuses to Desert the Republican Party

SHERMAN, Ky., August 1st.—Judge J. Sherman Cooper of Somerset, the deposed Internal Revenue Collector of the Eighth District, who was looked upon as a certain leader of the "Bull Moose" defection from the Republican party, has thrown a jolt into the "progressive" camp by issuing a statement defining his position and refusing absolutely to have anything to do with the bolt and formation of a new party.

Before the Chicago convention, Judge Cooper strongly supported Colonel Roosevelt, but he says the convention settled the matter and he is now for Taft and the regular ticket. He says: "I will therefore do nothing to encourage the organization of a new party. Neither will I support any of its nominees, no matter who they may be. I shall not desert my party now, but will stand by it, giving it my loyal and hearty support." Judge Cooper has been mentioned as a candidate for Congress against Caleb Powers.

SOME SNAKES

A Bunch of Stories From Fleming County But No Affidavits

The correspondent of The Gazette from Silver Lawn, Fleming county, writes as follows to that paper.

"Snakes have become a regular nuisance in this vicinity. An enormous reptile was killed in Bob Blair's kitchen. Four of the pesky things have been killed about the house at Silver Lawn and a den of them under the house keeps the place free from rats and mice. In cutting a field of grass, Mat Daugherty's machine cut so many of them to pieces that the grasses saved the oiling of the machine. Mat thought he had cut the head from a setting guinea, but on examination found a huge snake in coil. While Mat was chasing an Eve charmer a buzzard swooped down and grabbing a snake by the back of the neck started to fly away with it, but the reptile was so long that it caught on the barbs or a wire fence and the vulture left him there.

"P. S.—Mat never drank a drop of 'murder juice' and it has been more than twenty years since I swallowed any of the vile 'staph.'"

GREAT MASS OF PROOF

REPORTS OF 30,000 CASES OF KIDNEY TROUBLE. SOME OF THEM IN MAYSVILLE

Each of some 6,000 newspapers of the United States is publishing from week to week, names of people in its particular neighborhood, who had used and recommended Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney troubles, weak kidneys, bladder troubles and urinary disorders. This mass of proof includes over 30,000 testimonials. Maysville is no exception. Here is one of the Maysville cases.

Mrs. John Wallingford, 108 Commerce street, Maysville, Ky., says: "I am glad to confirm the testimonial I gave in 1900, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. Several of my neighbors have been cured of kidney trouble by this remedy, and a member of my family was also cured of a serious case of kidney complaint by its use, after other medicines had failed. Every once in a while I get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at J. J. Wood & Son's Drug Store, and use them. In this way I keep my kidneys in proper working order and ward off any kidney troubles."
